

The Integrated Project Team (IPT)

Course Number: 6014

Length: 2 Days

Primary Delivery Method: Instructor-led live classroom

Alternative Delivery Methods: Instructor-led online (synchronous)

Course Description

Learn the most effective ways to design, charter, and utilize an Integrated Project Team (IPT) to increase the project's production of acceptable deliverables for stakeholders and end users. While IPTs have become a standard requirement for many federal government project and program environments, some audits have shown that many IPTs are in name only. Discover techniques to ensure the proper implementation of an IPT to meet both statutory and regulatory requirements. The concept of deploying IPTs covers both IT and non-IT programs/projects and can, if properly implemented, provide significant benefits to federal agencies and departments.

Intended Audience

This course applies to a large cross-section of federal employees from senior leadership team members to program/project managers, leaders for acquisition, finance, legal, IT, and human resources departments. A basic understanding of general program/project management practices is helpful and will enhance understanding of course material.

Course Learning Objectives

- Understand the purpose and application of Integrated Project Teams (IPT) within federal government agencies and departments
- Create a charter with the appropriate roles and responsibilities of IPT members to oversee and govern federal government programs/projects
- Describe effective IPT practices in supporting federal programs/projects through their entire life cycle
- Demonstrate high-performing IPT practices and techniques that result in successful outcomes of federal government programs/projects
